

Texac Chronicle No. 5: Odessa—A Fate Worse Than Death

= War Diary by Russell "Texac" Bentley =

Azovs swearing in. The Nazi invocations in emblems and gestures are intentional. (Click on images for best resolution.)

If you are under 21, do not read this. If you are over 21, you have a moral obligation to read this, and view the photos, to look into the depths of human depravity, into the face of pure evil, to ponder it, to understand it, because if you do not understand it, you cannot fight it, and if you do not fight it, you cannot defeat it. And if we do not defeat it, it will defeat us...

“Nazi slaves”. Painting hanging in Donetsk museum. (Courtesy of the author. Be sure to click on image for best resolution.)

When I was on my way to Donetsk, I stopped in Rostov for a few days. I became friends with Mikael, the owner of the hostel I stayed at. He was a big, tough guy, a real Russian badass, tall, bald and muscular. He was also a veteran of the Russian Army, and a combat veteran of both Chechen wars. When I told him I was going to Donbass to fight fascists, he said “ War is bad”, and he meant it. I replied “Fascism is worse than war”. The story I am writing today explains what I meant by that..

Fascism is the philosophy of masters and slaves. Ukrainian fascists want to enslave the Russian people of Donbass, and to exterminate the ones who refuse to be slaves. If the Nazis were to take over Donbass, the men and boys here would be worked to death in the coal mines, and for the women and girls, the fate would be even worse.

I was recently speaking with a friend, a soldier in the NAF who fought at Debalsevo. He told me that during the battle, he came across a wounded Pravy Sektor Nazi with swastika tattoos and a shirt that had “Мастер”, “Master”, emblazoned across the front. The “Master” was begging for mercy. My friend finished him off, and I would have done the same. Do you think that is bad? Well, if you have been in battle against Nazis, you are entitled to an opinion about it. If you haven’t, then you’re not. Either way, read the rest of this article before you decide.

Azovs at a staging point prior to deployment.

When I first got to Donbass, I heard the rumors about girls being plucked off the streets of cities under fascist control and never being heard from again. I was a soldier then, and tried not to think about it much. The NAF was not in a position to liberate Mariupol or Odessa, so I felt there was nothing I could do. Now, I have the proof that the rumors are true, and I have to share this information with you and with the world, to get the truth out about what the fascists are doing to our people, and why we will die before we surrender.

And why you should too...

Igor Kolomoisky, the cherubic bastard who happens to be co-owner of Ukraine's largest financial institution, the Privat Bank, and one of the oligarchs controlling one of Ukraine's notorious private armies, the neoNazi thugs of the Azov Battalion. A billionaire Jewish capitalist employing a fierce Nazi formation: go figure. Only in a chaotic state like today's Ukraine.

Azov's emblem.

[dropcap]T[/dropcap>here have been at least 31 documented cases of good looking teenagers, (some as young as 11 years old) who have disappeared off of the streets of Odessa in the last year. (See links below.) Not street urchins or orphans, but kids from normal families, or rather, what used to be normal families, because how can any family ever be normal again after a child from that family is kidnapped by Nazis, and the best you can hope for is they only want the organs. But judging from the age and the looks of these kids, the Nazis who stole them from their families, want to do to those kids what they will do to all of us left alive, if we let them... Make us into slaves.

What is a slave? You are a slave if you can't say "no". You can't say "no" regardless of how cruel or wrong or absolutely evil your masters, the guys with the whips and the guns, are.

And no matter how twisted or depraved the orders, you will obey or you will suffer, or you will die. That is what it means to be a slave, and these little boys and girls are now slaves.

"Ukrainian fascists want to enslave the Russian people of Donbass, and to exterminate the ones who refuse to be slaves..."

And as utterly horrific as it is to imagine what those kids are going through, take a moment to consider what their parents and siblings are also going through. To know what has happened, and probably what is happening, at any given moment you think about it. And to know that the cops and the government and media aren't going to say a goddamned thing about it, much less actually DO ANYTHING about it, because it is THEM, and their friends and flunkies who are doing it. And you can't do shit about it. And if you try, you'll end up in a shallow hole, with a few holes in the back of your head, or even worse... Like your kid did.

The company they keep...

The Obamas feast Mikheil Saakashvili (then President of Georgia) and his wife, Sandra Roelofs, at the White House in 2009. All the vultures know each other after a while. (Click to max resolution.)

[dropcap]T[/dropcap]he governor of Odessa Oblast (region) is Mikael Sakashvili. He was appointed by Petro Poroshenko and granted Ukrainian citizenship, in spite of being wanted on criminal charges in his former country of Georgia (where he was president!). Sakashvili and his wife, Sandra Roelofs, have long been rumored to be major players in the international illegal human organ trade, based in Israel. Roelofs' wikipedia page states that "SOCO" the privately financed "charity" she founded, has, since 2007, "been actively taking care of reproductive health and child welfare in Georgia." Probably the same way they have been in Odessa. Odessa Oblast is under the military control of the "Azov" battalion, one of the most ruthless, criminal and openly neo-Nazi units in the AFU. Members of the Odessa police not only allowed the mass murder at the Worker's Union Hall to take place last year, they were active participants in it. What help do you think they will give to these missing children or their families? Criminal government, criminal army, criminal police. THAT is what it means to live under Fascism.

S I D E B A R

THE AZOV BATTALION: FROM NEONAZI MILITIAS TO PART OF UKRAINE'S NATIONAL ARMY. Click on the bar below

[learn_more] The Azov Battalion

Colonel and Member of Parliament Andriy Biletsky, commander of Azov Battalion. The unit's actual strength is a matter of dispute, but most observers put it between 300 and 1,000 members.

(Ukrainian: Батальйон Азов) is a far right neo-Nazi^{[1][2][3][4]} all-volunteer infantry military unit forming part of military reserve of National Guard of Ukraine.^{[5][6][7][8]} The unit is based in Mariupol in the Azov Sea coastal region.^[9] It saw its first combat experience recapturing Mariupol from pro-Russian separatists forces in June 2014.^[7] Initially a volunteer militia, formed as the Azov Battalion on 5 May 2014 during the 2014 pro-Russian unrest in Ukraine, Azov has since been incorporated into and is armed by Ukraine's Ministry of Internal Affairs.^[10] All members of the unit are under contract of National Guard of Ukraine.^[11] More than half of the Battalion members are from eastern Ukraine and speak Russian,^[12] and many of its recruits come from the eastern cities of Donetsk and Luhansk.^[13] The regiment's commander is Andriy Biletsky.

In its early days, Azov was the Ministry of Internal Affairs' special police company, led by Volodymyr Shpara, the leader of the Vasylkiv, Kiev, branch of Patriot of Ukraine and Right Sector.[14][15][16] Patrons of the battalion included Oleh Lyashko, a member of the Verkhovna Rada,[17] and billionaire Ihor Kolomoyskyi.[18] Many members of the unit were labelled "neo-Nazi" or "a far-right Ukrainian militia".[19][20][nb 1], an accusation that Ukrainian ministerial adviser, Anton Geraschenko has denied [10][21][nb 2][nb 3]. Its polished English-language social media pages and far-right ideology have attracted fighters from other locations in Europe.[2]

On 11 June 2015 the US House of Representatives passed amendments blocking any training of Azov by US forces, citing its neo-Nazi background as the reason.[24] On 26 June, Canadian defense minister declared as well that training by Canadian forces or support would not be provided to Azov.[25]

SOURCE: WIKIPEDIA

OUR COMMENT: The above statements are so much hot air, of course, the usual “plausible denials” tendered by the empire’s “clean faces”, the politicians babbling public relations lies about the dirty tricks that come to the surface from time to time. But you can bet the empire will find ways to fund the Nazis or whoever they want to employ to carry out their filthy agenda in Eastern Europe anyway, behind the people’s back. That’s what the CIA and a multitude of other sordid secret channels do, all day long.

[/learn_more]

END OF SIDEBAR

[dropcap]T/dropcap>here has been no action or comment by Odessa authorities about the mass disappearances of children in Odessa. A single case has been solved – a criminal gang, driving around Odessa in a BMW, one member dressed in a police uniform, kidnapped an underage girl and demanded a $20,000 ransom for her return. According to [the news report, while waiting for the ransom, the gang repeatedly “raped the underage girl in unnatural ways”. The gang was captured, and the girl rescued when they tried to collect the ransom. Note the BMW, note the police uniform, note the fact that the gang thought the family could actually pay a ransom of $20,000. They picked the wrong kid, that time, one with a family whose power and connections to the government were stronger than theirs.

Not just the children and their families, the entire society of Odessa has also been terrorized. Because if the Nazis can take the kid down the street, they can take yours too. Think for a moment what that would be like. The Horror... THAT is what we fight against here. So, pull your boots on, lock and load, and no mercy for Nazis. Victory or Death.

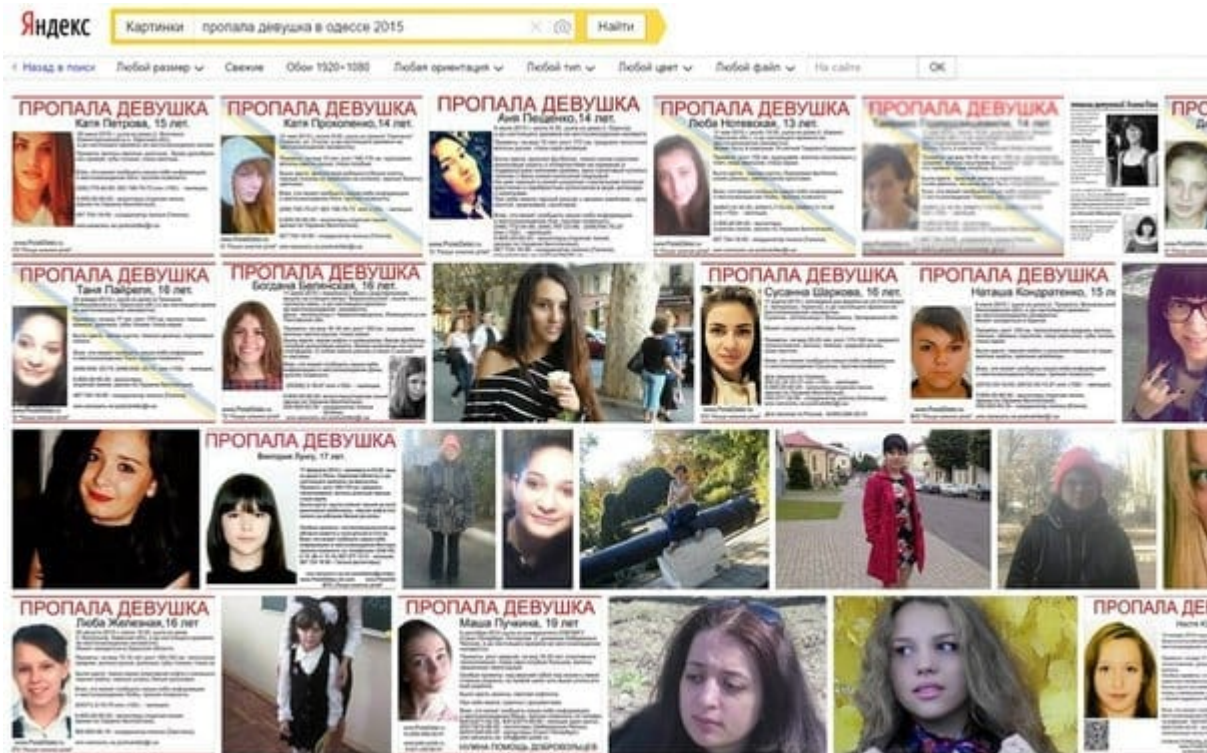

Russell Bentley is an advocate of the victims of the Novorussian War, and war correspondent for many media outlets, especially for The Greenville Post, the online magazine “New Eastern Outlook”, and a select number of other leading political sites.

This is a simulpost with Journal NEO.

IMPORTANT LINKS

(Some of these materials are in Russian.)

Photos of 31 missing kids

https://vk.com/album-17330910_221977716

<https://en.poiskdetei.ru>

News story about Odessa kids missing

<https://arhano.ru/articles/v-odesse-i-oblasti-massovo-pohishchayut-detey-i-devushek>

ADDENDUM

The following is a compilation of related materials. More will be added at a later date.

PRECIS: The dissolution of the Soviet Union as a result of unrelenting attacks by the West throughout its existence, in alliance with internal elements, plunged the people of Russia and former Soviet republics into unimaginable levels of social decomposition, political corruption and chaos. In rapid succession, the introduction of savage free market capitalism at the behest of US advisors in cahoots with Western puppets like Boris Yeltsin (whose departure is still lamented by the corporate cabals in Washington and Wall Street) ruined untold millions, deepened inequality to unheard of levels (while creating practically overnight a new class of robber barons—the so-called “oligarchs”), and opened the way to all manner of social vices, including runaway gangsterism, prostitution, institutionalized political corruption, and other ills common throughout the capitalist West.

The point here is that while prostitution did exist in the USSR, it was a matter of choice for women looking for some luxury items in return for sexual favors. As a social problem it was minuscule, since everyone was assured some social security, however modest. In the post-Soviet era, as mentioned earlier, these issues became magnified, in some regions and sectors of society reaching epidemic proportions.

Now with the advent of a broken, failed, Fascist-controlled state in Ukraine, the same problems have reached yet a new level of virulence, making the safety of ordinary citizens, especially the young, who have some value in the sexual markets, not to mention people mired in poverty, the primary targets. It is precisely this tragedy that Texac addresses in this dispatch.—PG

Israeli Organ Trafficking and Theft: From Moldova to Palestine

[learn_more]

Israeli Organ Harvesting: From Moldova To Palestine

By Alison Weir

In this photograph taken March 22, 2007, Vasile Dimineti holds a picture of his 24-year-old son, who died a year after selling his kidney. The family lives in the impoverished Moldovan village of Mingir, where about 40 of its 7,000 residents are thought to have sold a kidney. AFP photo/Daniel Mihailescu/Files [dropcap]I[/dropcap]n August Sweden's largest newspaper published an article suggesting that Israel had been taking Palestinian internal organs. The article, by veteran photojournalist Donald Bostrom, called for an international investigation.

Israel and its partisans immediately cried “anti-Semitism,” and Commentary’s Jonathan Tobin asserted that the story was “the tip of the iceberg in terms of European funded and promoted anti-Israel hate.”

The fact is, however, that Israeli organ harvesting—sometimes with Israeli governmental funding and the participation of high Israeli officials, prominent Israeli physicians, and Israeli government ministries—has been documented for many years. Among the victims have been Palestinians.

Alison Weir executive director of If Americans Knew and is on the board of the Council for the National Interest.

Nancy Scheper-Hughes is Chancellor’s Professor of Medical Anthropology at the University of California Berkeley, the founder of Organ Watch, and the author of scholarly books on organ trafficking. She is the pundit mainstream media call upon when they need expert commentary.

While Scheper-Hughes emphasizes that traffickers come from numerous nations and ethnicities, including Americans and Arabs, “Israel,” she states, “is at the top. It has tentacles reaching out worldwide.”

In a lecture last year she explained that Israeli organ traffickers “have a pyramid system at work that’s awesome...they have brokers everywhere, bank accounts everywhere; they’ve got recruiters, they’ve got translators, they’ve got travel agents who set up the visas.”

But this is no ordinary business. Organ traffickers prey on the world’s poorest, most desperate citizens, promising them what seem like astronomical sums of money ($1,000 to $10,000) in return for vital internal organs. As Scheper-Hughes points out, organ trafficking consists of “paying the poor and the hungry to slowly dismantle their bodies.”

Organ sales have been illegal in most countries for years, and the Convention against Transnational Organized Crime includes in its definition of human exploitation the extraction of organs for profit. Until very recently, however, the Israeli government not only permitted organ trafficking, it funded it.

Israelis are the leaders in “transplant tourism”—traveling to other nations to buy internal organs. While affluent individuals from numerous countries engage in this practice, Israel is unique in several ways.

First, Israelis partake at an extraordinarily high rate. According to a 2001 BBC report, Israelis buy more kidneys per capita than any other population.

Second, Israelis have the lowest donor rate in the world—one-third to one-fifth that of Europe—due in part to beliefs that Jewish religious law prohibits organ removal as “desecration of the body.”

Third, the Israeli government has enabled it. In testimony before a congressional subcommittee in 2001, Scheper-Hughes described what she termed Israel’s “national ‘program’ of transplant tourism.” For many years the Israeli health system subsidized its citizens' "transplant holidays," reimbursing Israelis $80,000 for medical operations abroad, with the remaining costs largely covered by government-subsidized insurance plans. In addition, Israel's Ministry of Defense has been directly involved, as members of the ministry or those closely related to them accompany transplant junkets.

Israeli traffickers have utilized people from diverse locations—the West Bank and Gaza, the Philippines, Eastern Europe. A BBC report described the situation in Europe's poorest country—homeland of Foreign Minister Avigdor Lieberman—where 90 percent of the people earn less than $2 a day: "Hundreds of Israelis have created a production line that starts in the villages of Moldova, where men today are walking around with one kidney."

In China not long ago an Israeli paid a broker $100,000 for a kidney transplant from an 18-year-old girl. She herself received $5,000, and died following surgery. In Brazil a legislative commission found that Israeli traffickers no longer were content with just kidneys; they had begun inquiring into additional body parts—lungs, livers and corneas.

In her testimony, Scheper-Hughes pointed out that "The sale of human organs and tissues requires that certain disadvantaged individuals, populations, and even nations have been reduced to the role of 'suppliers.' It is a scenario in which only certain bodies are broken, dismembered, fragmented, transported, processed, and sold in the interests of a more socially advantaged population...of receivers."

In a 2008 lecture Scheper-Hughes discussed the motivations of Israeli traffickers. One was greed, she explained. The other was "revenge, restitution, reparation for the Holocaust." She said some Israeli brokers and doctors had told her: "It's kind of '~an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' We're going to get every single kidney and liver and heart that we can.

The world owes it to us.”

Organ Theft

At times traffickers coerce reluctant sellers. Levy Izhak Rosenbaum, the alleged trafficker recently arrested in an FBI sweep in New Jersey, reportedly carried a gun; when a potential organ seller wanted to back out, Rosenbaum would use his finger to simulate firing at the person’s head. Rosenbaum, believed to be part of a ring centered in Israel, is the first case of trafficking to be prosecuted in the U.S.

More often organ theft involves dead bodies—or those alleged to be dead.

Israel’s very first successful heart transplant, in fact, used a stolen heart.

In 1968 Avraham Sadegat unexpectedly died two days after being hospitalized for a stroke. When his family was able to retrieve his body (the hospital initially refused to release it) they found his chest covered with bandages—odd, they thought, for a stroke victim. Upon removing the bandages they discovered that the heart was missing.

During this time, the press was announcing Israel’s first heart transplant. The family began to raise questions, but the hospital denied any connection. After the family raised a media furor, petitioned three cabinet ministers, and signed a document that they would not sue, the hospital finally admitted it had used Sadegat’s heart.

An Israeli newspaper quoted Sadegat’s tearful wife: “From the moment he entered the hospital, they apparently saw him only as a potential source of organs and not as a man in need of treatment. They only thought about how to do the deed without us knowing.” Sadegat’s medical condition pre-organ removal is unclear. According to an Israeli media report, “Once a heart stops beating, it is no longer fit for transplantation.”

Sadegat’s family was Israeli. Had they been Palestinian, it is doubtful they would have been able to force a hospital confession—and suggestions that the first Israeli heart transplant utilized a stolen organ would, quite likely, be termed blood libels.

Yehuda Hiss, Keeper of the Morgue

Perhaps one of the most long-term and high-level cases of organ theft concerns Dr. Yehuda Hiss, Israel’s chief pathologist and, from 1988 to 2004, director of Israel’s state morgue, the Abu Kabir Institute of Forensic Medicine.

One of the first indications of malfeasance occurred in 1998 and concerned a Scottish tourist named Alisdair Sinclair, who died under questionable circumstances after being taken into Israeli custody.

His family brought his body home and found that it had been autopsied. They commissioned a second autopsy at Glasgow University and discovered that Alisdair’s heart and a tiny throat bone, the hyoid, were missing. The British Embassy filed a complaint with Israel.

A heart was then sent to Scotland, but when the family requested a DNA test to confirm its identity, Hiss refused, citing prohibitive cost. DNA tests were eventually conducted but proved inconclusive. According to several reports, a researcher had put in a request for a hyoid bone around the time of Sinclair’s death and eventually received a bill for shipping costs.

Over the following years Hiss was often the center of accusations. An Israeli newspaper published an investigative report charging that diverse body parts—“legs, thighs, ovaries, breasts and testicles”—had been removed without permission and sold to medical institutions. The bodies were stuffed with broomsticks and cotton wool.

Although government investigations confirmed the main facts, little was done, and complaints continued—often from parents of dead Israeli soldiers. Finally, in 2004, Israel's health minister removed Hiss as director of the morgue, while retaining him as Israel's chief pathologist.

Hiss had been involved in previous controversies concerning the Israeli government. In one he was suspected of falsifying a DNA test in an investigation into the "Yemenite Children Affair," in which a thousand children of immigrants disappeared. (Many believe that some, at least, were adopted out, for pay.) Hiss has also been accused of falsifying evidence to the commission investigating the assassination of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Palestinian Victims

For decades Palestinians have charged Israel with taking organs from Palestinians its soldiers wounded or killed.

In her subcommittee testimony Scheper-Hughes stated, "Human rights groups in the West Bank complained to me of tissue and organs stealing of slain Palestinians by Israeli pathologists at the national Israeli legal medical institute in Tel Aviv."

A 1990 article in the Washington Report on Middle East Affairs, for Middle East Affairs reported "widespread anxiety over organ thefts which has gripped Gaza and the West Bank since the intifada began in December of 1987," and quoted a forensic physician: "There are indications that...organs, especially eyes and kidneys, were removed from the bodies during the first year or year and a half."

Such statements were largely ignored, often portrayed as anti-Semitic exaggeration. According to The Forward magazine, however, the Israeli government corroborated them in 2001. The Forward reports that an investigation into Hiss revealed that he “seemed to view every body that ended up in his morgue, whether Israeli or Palestinian, as fair game for organ harvesting.”

Over the years a great many Palestinian bodies have “ended up” in the Israeli morgue.

Israeli forces have frequently taken custody of Palestinians they have wounded or killed. Sometimes the bodies were kept in Israel, buried in unidentified graves in what are known as “cemeteries of numbers.” In other cases they were returned late at night days later with crudely stitched naval-to-chin incisions, and Israel requiring the bereaved families to bury their children, husbands, and brothers immediately—sometimes with the electricity shut off—and Israeli soldiers overseeing the funeral.

In 2005 an Israeli soldier described a military doctor who gave “medics lessons” using the body of a Palestinian killed by Israeli forces. Haaretz reports: “The soldier said that the Palestinian’s body had been riddled with bullets and that some of his internal organs had spilled out. The doctor pronounced the man dead and then “took out a knife and began to cut off parts of the body. He explained the various parts to us—the membrane that covers the lungs, the layers of the skin, the liver. “I didn’t say anything because I was still new in the army. Two of the medics moved away, and one of them threw up. It was all done very brutally. It was simply contempt for the body.’”

Palestinians, of course, are an unusually vulnerable population. Human rights reports have documented a situation in which Palestinians have few real rights: Israeli forces have killed civilians with impunity, imprisoned massive numbers without charges or trials, abused prisoners, and strip-searched children. And just as Palestinians have little ability to protect their bodies when they're living, they're equally unable to prevent their desecration when they're dead. By Israel's own admission, Israeli authorities cut open Palestinian corpses without permission of the families, without public transparency, and without, it appears, normal autopsy reports.

At the same time, some Israelis hold extremist views regarding organ extraction. In 1996 Jewish Week reported that Rabbi Yitzhak Ginsburgh, a leader of the Lubavitch sect of Judaism and the dean of a religious Jewish school in a West Bank settlement, had stated: "If a Jew needs a liver, can you take the liver of an innocent non-Jew passing by to save him? The Torah would probably permit that."

Ginsburgh elaborated: "Jewish life has infinite value. There is something infinitely more holy and unique about Jewish life than non-Jewish life."

While the Israeli government briefly arrested Ginsburgh, and most Israelis decry such beliefs, an Israeli scholar on Jewish scriptural views and ethnic chauvinism said: "The sad thing is, these statements are in our books." He pointed out that while such Talmudic texts were "purely theoretical" at the time they were written, now they're being cited "in circumstances where Jews have a state and are empowered."

Dr. A. Clare Brandabur, an American professor, writes that information in the Swedish article resonated with reports she heard during the first intifada.

She described interviewing the head of the Red Crescent in Gaza, mentioning "reports of shootings of Palestinian children at times when there were no 'clashes' going on—a solitary 6-year-old entering his schoolyard in the morning with his book-bag on his back. The soldiers abducted the wounded child at gunpoint, then his body would be returned a few days later having undergone an 'autopsy at Abu Kabir Hospital.'"

She asked the director "if he had considered the possibility that these killings were being done for organ transplant, since...it is not allowed to take Jewish organs to save a Jewish life, but it is allowed to take the organs of non-Jews to save Jewish lives."

He had "suspected such things," he replied, "but since they had no access to the records of Abu Kabir Hospital, there was no way to verify these suspicions."

The Swedish newspaper's call for an investigation into Israel's treatment of Palestinian bodies is now being echoed by others. Such an investigation could dispel inaccurate suspicions, absolve the innocent, and discover the guilty.

Israel and its powerful advocates abroad are doing their best to prevent that from happening.

Alison Weir is executive director of If Americans Knew. An Internet petition calling for an investigation can be viewed at <www.ipetitions.com/petition/investigateorgantheft>. An expanded and footnoted version of this article can be viewed on the Washington Report on Middle East Affairs,'s Web site.

An Internet petition calling for an investigation can be viewed at:

<http://www.ipetitions.com/petition/investigateorgantheft/>

Footnotes:

1. Bostrom, Donald, "Our sons plundered for their organs," Aftonbladet, Aug. 17, 2009, translated by Tlaxcala. <http://www.tlaxcala.es/pp.asp?reference=8390&lg=en>. (Original Swedish version at <http://www.aftonbladet.se/kultur/article5652583.ab>)
2. Israel Insider, "Netanyahu to press Sweden to condemn blood libel," Aug. 23, 2009

- <http://israelinsider.ning.com/profiles/blogs/netanyahu-to-press-sweden-to>
3. Tobin, Jonathan, "Swedish Anti-Semites Dig Up a Blood Libel," CommentaryMagazine.com, Aug. 20, 2009
<http://www.commentarymagazine.com/blogs/index.php/tobin/76522>
 4. Cassel, Matthew, "Baseless organ theft accusations will not bring Israel to justice," The Electronic Intifada, Aug. 24, 2009
<http://electronicintifada.net/v2/article10730.shtml>
 5. Scheper-Hughes, Nancy, "The Organ of Last Resort," UNESCO, www.unesco.org, July, 2001
http://www.unesco.org/courier/2001_07/uk/doss34.htm. University of California Berkeley Anthropology Faculty CV: Nancy Scheper-Hughes, Chancellor's Professor in Medical Anthropology, Head, Doctoral Program in Medical Anthropology, Critical Studies in Medicine, Science and the Body, Director, Organs Watch <http://anthropology.berkeley.edu/nsh.html>
 6. Griffin, Drew and David Fitzpatrick, "Donor says he got thousands for his kidney," CNN Special Investigations Unit, CNN, Sept. 2, 2009
<http://www.cnn.com/2009/WORLD/meast/09/01/blackmarket.organs/>
 7. Scheper-Hughes Lecture, New York PBS 13 Forum
 8. Osava, Mario, "BRAZIL: Poor Sell Organs to Trans-Atlantic Trafficking Ring," Inter Press Service (IPS), Feb. 23, 2004
<http://ipsnews.net/news.asp?idnews=22524>
 9. Yeshiva World News, "CNN: Israel a Leader in Organ Trafficking," Sept. 3, 2009
<http://www.theyeshivaworld.com/news/General+News/38973/CNN:+Israel+a+Leader+in+Organ+Trafficking.html>
 10. Chabin, Michele, "Organ Donation: Legal, But Still Controversial," Jewish Week, April 9, 2008
http://www.thejewishweek.com/viewArticle/c40_a7588/News/Israel.html
 11. Rohter, Larry, "Tracking the Sale of a Kidney on a Path of Poverty and Hope," The New York Times, May 23, 2004
<http://www.nytimes.com/2004/05/23/international/americas/23BRAZ.html?th=&pagewanted=print&position=>
 12. Shapira-Rosenberg, Efrat, "A mitzvah called organ donation," Ynet News, June 10, 2007 <http://www.ynetnews.com/articles/0,7340,L-3388529,00.html>
 13. Rohter, Larry, op. cit.
 14. Ibid.
 15. "Organs for Sale: China's Growing Trade and Ultimate Violation of Prisoners'

Rights," Hearing Before the Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights of the Committee on International Relations, House of Representatives, 107th Congress, First Session, June 27, 2001, Serial No. 107-29

http://commdocs.house.gov/committees/intlrel/hfa73452.000/hfa73452_of.htm

16. Lloyd-Roberts, Sue, "Europe's poorest country supplying organs to its neighbours," BBC Newsnight, 9/7/01
<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/events/newsnight/1437345.stm>
17. "BRAZIL: Poor Sell Organs to Trans-Atlantic Trafficking Ring," Mario Osava, IPS, Feb. 23, 2004 <http://ipsnews.net/news.asp?idnews=22524>
18. New York Times
19. "Israeli organ traffickers shift operations to China," BioEdge, June 4, 2004
http://www.bioedge.org/index.php/bioethics/bioethics_article/7726/
<http://www.nytimes.com/2004/05/23/international/americas/23BRAZ.html?th=&pagewanted=print&position=>
20. "CNN: Israel a Leader in Organ Trafficking," Yeshiva World News, Sept. 3, 2009
<http://www.theyeshivaworld.com/news/General+News/38973/CNN:+Israel+a+Leader+in+Organ+Trafficking.html>
21. "Tracking the Sale of a Kidney on a Path of Poverty and Hope," New York Times, Larry Rohter, May 23, 2004
<http://www.nytimes.com/2004/05/23/international/americas/23BRAZ.html?th>
22. "40 years after Israel's first transplant, donor's family says his heart was stolen," Dana Weiler-Polak, Haaretz, Dec., 14, 2008
<http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/spages/1046041.html>
23. "40 years on, medical staffers from Israel's first human heart transplant reminisce about the feat," Judy Siegel, Jerusalem Post, Dec. 7, 2008
<http://www.encyclopedia.com/doc/1P1-159077338.html>
24. "Shas swing vote pushes through organ donor law," Shahar Ilan, Haaretz, March 25, 2008 <http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/spages/968084.html>
25. "With top rabbis' blessing, Knesset approves organ donation law," Shahar Ilan, Haaretz, Aug. 7, 2008 <http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/spages/967871.html>
26. "Scottish Tourist's Family Rejects Out-of-Court Settlement," Netty C. Gross, The Jerusalem Report, Jan. 29, 2001
27. "Attorney-General lodges complaint against Abu Kabir coroner," Dan Izenbert, Jerusalem Post, Dec. 11, 2003

28. "Hiss fired for repeated body-part scandals," Judy Siegel, Jerusalem Post, May 11, 2004
29. "Infamous Chief Pathologist to Once Again Evade Punishment," Ezra HaLevi, Arutz Sheva Israel National News, Sept. 26, 2005
<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/90518>
30. "Were the Children Sold?" Yechiel A. Mann, Stop-Abuse.net
<http://stop-abuse.net/ym5.htm>
31. "The Missing Children," Yechiel A. Mann, Stop-Abuse.net
<http://stop-abuse.net/ym1.htm>
32. "Infamous Chief Pathologist to Once Again Evade Punishment," Ezra HaLevi, Arutz Sheva Israel National News, Sept. 26, 2005
<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/90518>
33. "Infamous Chief Pathologist to Once Again Evade Punishment," Ezra HaLevi, Arutz Sheva Israel National News, Sept. 26, 2005
<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/90518>
34. "Illicit Body-Part Sales Present Widespread Problem," By Rebecca Dube, Forward, Published Aug. 26, 2009, issue of Sept. 4, 2009
<http://www.forward.com/articles/112915/>
35. "Palestinian corpse used for IDF anatomy lesson," Amos Harel, Haaretz, Jan. 28, 2005 <http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/pages/ShArt.jhtml?itemNo=533018>
36. "The Swedish canard – not only smoke, but also fire," Shraga Elam, Aug. 25, 2009 (posted Sept. 4, 2009) (Hebrew: <http://cafe.themarker.com/view.php?t=1192567>)
<http://shraga-elam.blogspot.com/2009/09/swedish-canard-not-only-smoke-but-also.html>
37. "Israeli lawyer sues Swedish paper," JTA, Aug. 27, 2009
<http://jta.org/news/article/2009/08/27/1007480/israeli-lawyer-sues-swedish-paper>
38. "Israeli lawyer sues 'Aftonbladet' in NY Court," E.B. Solomont, Jerusalem Post, Aug. 26, 2009
<http://www.jpost.com/servlet/Satellite?cid=1251145124980&pagename=JPost%2FJPArticle%2FShowFull>
39. "Israeli Reservists To Sue Swedish Newspaper," David Bedein, The Bulletin, August 30, 2009
<http://thebulletin.us/articles/2009/09/04/news/world/doc4a9aa59f46ce3700709743.prt>

Note to Commenters

Due to severe hacking attacks in the recent past that brought our site down for up to 11 days with considerable loss of circulation, we exercise extreme caution in the comments we publish, as the comment box has been one of the main arteries to inject malicious code. Because of that comments may not appear immediately, but rest assured that if you are a legitimate commenter your opinion will be published within 24 hours. If your comment fails to appear, and you wish to reach us directly, send us a mail at: editor@greenvillepost.com

We apologize for this inconvenience.

Nauseated by the vile corporate media?

Had enough of their lies, escapism, omissions and relentless manipulation?

GET EVEN.

Send a donation to

The Greenville Post—or

SHARE OUR ARTICLES WIDELY!

But be sure to support YOUR media.

If you don't, who will?

OBJECTIVITY?!

We AIN'T GOT NO objectivity!
We DON'T HAVE TO SHOW YOU any stinkin' objectivity!

THE GREENVILLE POST

ALL CAPTIONS AND PULL-QUOTES BY THE EDITORS, NOT THE AUTHORS.

DONATE WHAT YOU CAN TO HELP

THE GREENVILLE POST

Checkout using PayPal >

