

The Long Road to Truth: Anti-Putin Protester Faces Reality in Ukraine

DEBORAH ARMSTRONG—"We went to one yard," Masha recalls, remembering an apartment building they had visited. "And there was a children's playground, and graves right on this playground. Right there. It was the first biggest shock that I had. When I looked at it live. When it's not a photo or, I don't know, some video you watch on TV. When you see it live. The playground. And those graves. Right there."